

Timur Topalgoekceli

(Founder & CEO of Hello Tomorrow Turkey)

Timur Topalgoekceli is the Founder & CEO of Hello Tomorrow Turkey, a hybrid NGO and advisory firm that accelerates science-based entrepreneurship in Turkey. He is also Senior Associate at Baringa Partners, a UK-based energy consultancy, specialising on renewables, decarbonisation and climate finance. Previously, Timur was an investment analyst at the International Energy Agency (IEA) in Paris, where he worked on supply side modelling and also co-authored 12 publications, including the annual World Energy Outlook, the IEA's flagship publication.

Prior to joining the IEA, Timur worked in Equity Research Sales at Standard & Poor's Investment Division, covering key European markets. Having graduated from the London School of Economics and Political Science, he has worked on energy projects in various positions, including at a JP Morgan Emerging Market Hedge Fund in London or Nobel Laureate Mohammed Yunus' Grameen Bank in Bangladesh.

Timur was recently selected as an Atlantic Council Millennium Fellow, alongside 20 rising global leaders selected from over 100 countries who will shape the twenty-first century. In addition, he is a special advisor to the board of Teraloop Oy, a global pioneer in kinetic energy storage.
